The maps generated at the HUD NSP3 Mapping Tool for Preparing Action Plan website are included as an attachment.

Data Sources Used to Determine Areas of Greatest Need

Describe the data sources used to determine the areas of greatest need.

Response:

1. The HUD Neighborhood Stabilization Program 3 (NSP3) Mapping Tool was used to define each of the areas of greatest need.

2. A local housing market analysis was developed by the Volusia County Community Assistance Division to aid in determining areas of greatest need, and in assessing the types of activities to be undertaken in these areas using NSP3 funds. The Community Assistance Division used the following data sources in developing its local housing market analysis: data from www.trulia.com (an Internet based real estate market analysis website), the Daytona Beach Area Realtors Association Market Analysis, the Volusia County Economic Development Division, the Shimberg Center for Affordable Housing, the West Volusia Association of Realtors, the Daytona Area Association of Realtors, the National Association of Realtors and data from the U.S. Census, American Community Survey.

Determination of Areas of Greatest Need and Applicable Tiers

Describe how the areas of greatest need were established and whether a tiered approach is being utilized to determine the distribution of funding.

Response:

In Volusia County, the areas of greatest need for the Neighborhood Stabilization Program 3 (NSP3) were developed pursuant to the criteria established in the Housing and Economic Recovery Act of 2008 (HERA) and the NSP3 Notice that was authorized in the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (Frank-Dodd Act). The purpose of the NSP3 is to stabilize neighborhoods whose viability has been, and continues to be, damaged by the economic effects of properties that have been foreclosed upon and abandoned.

HERA required NSP funds to be used in the areas of greatest need, as determined based on the following criteria:

- Greatest percentage of home foreclosures;

- Highest percentage of homes financed by a subprime mortgage related loan; and
- Areas identified as the most likely to face a significant rise in the rate of home foreclosures

Community Assistance utilized the HUD-provided foreclosure data from HUD User Website – www.huduser.org/publications/commdevl/nsp.html for this analysis. Based on the HUD established criteria and the HUD-provided foreclosure data, Volusia County Community Assistance Division (“Community Assistance”) initially targeted selected census tract block groups within the cities of Deland, Edgewater, Holly Hill and Orange City, including unincorporated Volusia County areas that were adjacent to these cities in applying for NSP1 more than two years ago. The NSP1 target areas were later expanded by an amendment to the NSP1 Action Plan to include census tracts within the cities of DeBary, Lake Helen, New Smyrna Beach, Ormond Beach and South Daytona that met these criteria. (“NSP1 target areas”)

ESTIMATES OF FORECLOSURE NEED - HUD Foreclosure Score

As required by the Frank-Dodd Act for the NSP3 application, Community Assistance used HUD’s Foreclosure Need website to identify the areas of greatest need that will likely face a significant rise in the rate of home foreclosures. Community Assistance evaluated the census tracts that are the current NSP1 target areas as the first step in determining the areas of greatest need for NSP3 funding as it had already been determined that these census tracts were heavily impacted by foreclosures. The neighborhoods identified by Community Assistance as being the areas of greatest need had an individual or average combined index score not less than 17. This is the minimum threshold score established by HUD for the State of Florida. Table 1 below summarizes this information for the current NSP1 target areas:

Table 1: NSP 1 census tracts by HUD foreclosure score

Foreclosure Estimates – Number of foreclosure starts

Using the data provided by HUD through its website mapping tool, Community Assistance analyzed the foreclosure starts in the past year for each of the threshold census tracts. This data is considered to be very relevant as it provides information on the extent to which foreclosure remains a current problem in the area.

Foreclosure estimates – Highest ranked census tracts – Westside and Eastside

Volusia County has historically and culturally been divided between the Eastside and Westside communities, due in part to the large portion of the center of the county that remains undeveloped and/or agricultural land. With this in mind, Community Assistance determined that the NSP3 areas of greatest need must include highly impacted neighborhoods on both sides of the county. Table 4 below lists the census tracts with the highest HUD foreclosure scores and the highest number of foreclosure starts in the past year which are potential NSP3 areas of greatest need.

Table 4: Census tracts with highest foreclosure starts

Area of County	Census Tract	Number of foreclosure starts in the past year

DeLand	903.01	223
Orange City	908.01	299

Edgewater	830.04	316
Holly Hill	809.00	203

Foreclosure estimates - Ability to impact target areas

Pursuant to the Frank-Dodd Act, the NSP3 funds are intended to be used in the areas of greatest need that are drawn in a targeted manner such that the funds can have a positive impact on the selected neighborhoods. Community Assistance reviewed the HUD-provided data on the number of housing units in the neighborhood and compared these numbers to the number of properties needed to make an impact in the identified target areas as estimated by HUD. Table 5 below summarizes this data:

Table 5: Census tracts and estimated properties to impact

Area of County	Census Tract	Number of housing units in neighborhood	Estimated number of properties needed to make an impact in the neighborhood
DeLand	903.01	4,662	43
Orange City	908.01	4,811	59
Edgewater	830.04	4,618	63
Holly Hill	809.00	5,205	42
TOTAL		19,296	207

Upon further review and analysis, Community Assistance determined that using the geographic boundaries of the selected census tracts would create areas of greatest need that are too large to create a positive impact, based on the amount of NSP1 and NSP3 funds allocated to Volusia County. Using the HUD foreclosure mapping tool, Volusia County initially revised and narrowed the potential NSP 3 target areas, focusing on smaller neighborhood regions within these census tracts. Table 6 below summarizes the data for the areas of greatest need which have been reduced in size:

Table 6: Revised census tracts by estimated properties to impact

NSP3 Areas of Greatest Need

The Volusia County NSP3 allocation initially focused on five (5) small neighborhoods, defined pursuant to the NSP3 criteria, attempting to create a significant impact for the hardest hit communities. However, with the passage of time, it was determined by Volusia County that the number of foreclosed homes located within the initially targeted areas was insufficient to make a significant impact in these communities. Therefore, Community Assistance conducted further research and analysis using the HUD foreclosure mapping tool to derive data for expansion within surrounding areas of the initially targeted neighborhoods. Thus, Volusia County proposes that with this expansion, the likelihood of achieving significant impact results within those hardest hit communities will increase. Initial target areas are the neighborhoods described in Table A below which are composed of census tract block groups DeLand, Orange City, Edgewater, and Holly Hill described generally below. The initial NSP3 areas of greatest need which were approved by HUD on March 10, 2011 are described with specificity and maps in Addendum A.

On April 19, 2012, Volusia County amended its NSP3 Substantial Amendment to expand the NSP3 program target areas. The purpose of this proposed expansion of the NSP3 target areas was to increase the number of foreclosed homes available for acquisition using Volusia County NSP3 funding. Volusia County proposed that with this increased size of the NSP3 target areas, the probability of making a substantial impact on those hardest hit communities would also increase. Therefore, Volusia County expanded the initial NSP3 program target areas as determined by Community Assistance to include additional census tracts in the cities of Edgewater, Holly Hill and Orange City further described in Table 7 below. The Proposed NSP3 areas of greatest need are described with specificity and maps in Addendum B, attached hereto. Community Assistance used the current criteria established for NSP3 allocation purposes as its basis for expansion of the existing initial NSP3 program target areas. Volusia County will continue to pursue the acquisition and rehabilitation of foreclosed and abandoned properties in the previously identified target areas to further efforts to stabilize these communities.

Using the HUD foreclosure mapping tool, Volusia County revised and expanded the potential NSP3 program target areas on April 19, 2012, to focus on broader neighborhood regions within these census tracts. Volusia County has previously experienced good success when targeting these areas for acquisition, rehabilitation and resale of foreclosed homes under the Neighborhood Stabilization Program. Table 7 below summarizes the data for the expanded areas of greatest need which have been increased in size:

Table 7: Revised census tracts by estimated properties to impact

Holly Hill – Nova West	808.05	1,421	13

TOTAL		7,426	88

*These areas are all located within the geographic boundaries of the selected census tracts previously identified as NSP1 target areas for Volusia County. (See Table 1)

Proposed NSP3 Expanded Areas of Greatest Need

Volusia County expanded three (3) of the initial areas of greatest concern to include adjoining neighborhoods which are severely impacted by foreclosure and defined pursuant to the NSP3 criteria in order to create a significant impact for those hardest hit communities. Expanded NSP3 program target areas are the neighborhoods described in Table B below which are composed of census tract block groups in Edgewater, Holly Hill and Orange City described generally below. The proposed NSP3 areas of greatest need are described with specificity and maps in Addendum B.

4. Low-Income Targeting

Low-Income Set-Aside Amount

Enter the low-income set-aside percentage in the first field. The field for total funds set aside will populate based on the percentage entered in the first field and the total NSP3 grant.

Identify the estimated amount of funds appropriated or otherwise made available under the NSP3 to be used to provide housing for individuals or families whose incomes do not exceed 50 percent of area median income.

Response:

Total low-income set-aside percentage (must be no less than 25 percent): 25.00%

Total funds set aside for low-income individuals = $917,629.00

Meeting Low-Income Target

Provide a summary that describes the manner in which the low-income targeting goals will be met.

Response:

Volusia County anticipates that the requirement to use at least 25% of the NSP3 funds to assist persons at or below 50% of the area median income will be primarily accomplished through homeownership housing activities. Community Assistance will issue one or more Request for Proposals directed to non-profit homebuyer housing developers for acquisition and rehabilitation of foreclosed homes for resale to persons at or below 50% of the area median income.

Volusia County also plans to make rental housing available to this targeted population. Community Assistance will issue one or more Request for Proposals directed to the agencies that are members of the Continuum of Care, as well as other non-profit affordable rental housing developers, to identify suitable foreclosed and abandoned properties to acquire and rehabilitate for permanent rental housing for low-income households that need safe, decent and affordable rental housing.

On January 24, 2013, Volusia County amended its NSP3 Substantial Amendment to transfer $917,629 of budgeted funds into Activity Number 5 for the acquisition, rehabilitation and resale of foreclosed homes by Volusia County to households at 50% or less of the area median income (low-income). The original plan which provided funds to acquire and rehabilitate foreclosed by non-profit developers for resale or rental to low-income households proved difficult to implement while adhering to the time guidelines set forth by HUD for expenditure of the NSP3 grant. The purpose of this proposed amendment was to ensure that the county meets the NSP3 grant requirements and expenditure deadlines to expend 25% of the NSP3 funds on low-income households.

5. Acquisition and Relocation

Activity Description

This activity will assist the areas of greatest need with high rates of foreclosure in preventing blight by providing safe, decent and affordable housing for first-time homebuyers.

On April 19, 2012, Volusia County amended this activity for the purpose of expanding the existing NSP3 program target areas, modifying the activity budget by transferring $300,000 to Activity Number 5 and make technical corrections.

Overview of local housing market conditions

Volusia County Community Assistance Division staff conducted an analysis of the local housing market conditions to comply with the requirements of NSP3 regulations. The following data was reviewed for Volusia County as a whole, and to the extent available, for the proposed NSP3 census tract target areas, in conducting this analysis:

- Trulia.com website (Internet based real estate market analysis website)
- U.S. Census, American Community Survey for 2007-2009
- Volusia County Consolidated Plan for FY 2010-2014: Housing Needs Assessment and Housing Market Analysis sections
- Volusia County Economic Development Division
- University of Florida Shimberg Center for Affordable Housing
- West Volusia and Daytona Area Association of Realtors
- National Association of Realtors

Additionally, Community Assistance staff consulted with local housing partners, including community housing development organizations and affordable rental housing providers, regarding housing market conditions in the county, with particular focus on rental housing needs. The analysis of the local housing market conditions revealed the key conditions and trends related to housing tenure, homes sales, rental market, housing affordability and employment for Volusia County. This analysis is summarized below.

Housing tenure:

- Volusia County's housing tenure is heavily weighted in favor of homeownership. As of 2009, the U.S. Census estimated 73.8% of occupied housing units in the county were homeowner occupied.
- The percentage of owner occupied homes in the county as a whole has decreased slightly from 2007 when the U.S. Census estimated that 76.0% of occupied housing units in the county were homeowner occupied.
- Homeownership rates for the NPS3 proposed census tracts is summarized below, and shows that generally these census tracts have any even higher rate of homeownership than the county as a whole:

City-Census tract	2005-2009 Percentage of homeownership
Deland - 903.01	81.5%
Orange City – 908.01	79.5%

Edgewater – 830.04	84.9%
Holly Hill – 809.00	56.5%

U.S. Census, American Community Survey 2005-2009

Homes sales:

- Local home sales data accumulated and reported on the Trulia.com website provided both positive and negative indicators of the strength of the local market for sale of single family residences in the proposed NSP 3 target cities, as summarized below:

Area	Number of homes for sale	Number of homes recently sold	Median sales price	Year over year change in median price
Deland - 32720	373	213	$110,000	-17.8%

* Data provided by Trulia.com as of December 13, 2010

- Home sales market data provided by the West Volusia Association of Realtors as of December 2009 reflected similar trends as the data summarized above from the Trulia.com website. However, this data showed that the average days on market for West Volusia had decreased by 33.9% from 2008 (decreasing from 170 days to 112 days), which reflects a positive trend for continued home sales.

Housing affordability:

- According to the National Association of Realtors, the Volusia County metropolitan area is experiencing a very high level of homeownership affordability. For the third quarter of 2010, in Volusia County the ratio of monthly mortgage payment to income was 8.2%, as compared with an average of 14.3% for the United States as a whole. In 2008, the affordability rate for Volusia County was 9.8%, indicating that homeownership is even more affordable in the county than two years ago.

Rental market:

- Managers of multi-family affordable housing projects located in Volusia County reported that their rental occupancy rates had decreased from near capacity in 2008, and that increased marketing and “rent specials” had become necessary to secure rentals.

Employment:

- According to the Volusia County Economic Development 2010 Quarter 3 report, unemployment for 2010 year to date had fallen by 2.5%.

- As reported by the National Association of Realtors, although the Volusia County metropolitan area shows that unemployment is higher than the national average for the 3rd quarter of 2010, the local employment growth is respectable as compared to other markets.

As outlined above, the local housing market analysis conducted by Community Assistance supports the use of NSP3 funds for direct acquisition and rehabilitation by the grantee of foreclosed homes in these areas. All of the targeted census tracts have higher rates of homeownership than the average for the county as a whole, except for Holly Hill. Market data for Orange City and Edgewater shows that the median sales price for homes in these areas has either increased or maintained over the past year which may be due in part to the investment of NSP1 funds in these neighborhoods. Continued NSP3 investment is important to maintaining homes values. The Holly Hill neighborhood is experiencing a higher rate of sales price decrease than the other proposed NSP3 target areas. Because the market values are continuing to decline, the investment of NSP3 funds is critical to prevent further decrease and blight.

The procedures that Volusia County undertook to create preferences for the development of affordable rental housing with NSP3 funds involved the review of the local housing market analysis, with particular attention to the rates of homeownership, rental occupancy, affordability, employment, wages, market rents, and other factors for each of the proposed NSP 3 target areas and countywide. The County also considered other sources of funds for the development of rental housing in the community. A preference for the development of affordable rental housing in the Holly Hill Nova East neighborhood was established to take advantage of the higher demand for decent rental housing in this NSP3 neighborhood and because of the proximity of this neighborhood to public transportation and employment centers.

Acquisition: The Community Assistance Division will work directly with lenders and through the National Community Stabilization Trust to acquire single-family homes, including townhomes and duplexes, in the NSP3 target areas that have been foreclosed, vacant for at least 90 days, and are on the lender's or investor's current inventory of real estate owned property. Once foreclosed properties have been identified in the target areas, the Community Assistance Division will negotiate with the lender(s) to obtain the maximum reasonable purchase discount, with a minimum of 1% discount from the appraised value. Acquisition costs will include all eligible acquisition costs, and direct project delivery costs.

Rehabilitation: Community Assistance plans to use NSP3 funds for the rehabilitation of the acquired foreclosed properties. Rehabilitation costs will include labor, materials, supplies, permits, lead-based paint assessment, asbestos assessment, abatement and clearance activities, accessibility compliance and any other code deficiencies. Rehabilitation costs will also

	include direct project delivery costs. All rehabilitation work shall be undertaken by approved contractors that are selected through a competitive process. The rehabilitation work shall be performed in accordance with the Florida Building Codes currently in effect. The County of Volusia Minimum Standards for Rehabilitation of Residential Properties , amended for NSP3 to include energy efficiency and conservation standards, shall be used in completing work specifications for all rehabilitation activities. If the esimated cost of the rehabilitation at acquistion would exceed 65% of the appraised value of the structure, the unit will be re-evaluated for suitability as an acquisition for this activity with NSP3 funds. Volusia County, and its rehabilitation contractors, shall to the maximum extent possible, provide for the hiring of employees who reside in the vicinity of NSP3 projects or contract with small businesses that are owned and operated by persons residing in the vicinity of the project. Among other procedures, Volusia County and its contractors will develop a plan to address vicinity hiring which may include posting of hiring and contracting notices on its NSP website, at the project, in selected publications, and conduct outreach with applicable employment organizations. Disposition: Community Assistance will establish a period of time in which to sell the acquired home to income eligible homebuyers. Failure to sell the home in a timely manner will result in the possibility that Community Assistance will turn the unit into an affordable rental unit to be managed by the NSP Rental Partner or a property management agency that has been selected by Community Assistance during a competitive selection process. The County may also determine to dispose of the property through a lease purchase program. Direct homeownership assistance: Community Assistance will ensure continued affordability by leaving a portion of the NSP acquisition and rehabilitation funds behind in the form of a 0% interest, 15 year deferred loan that will be forgiven if all occupancy conditions are met. Funds will be recaptured if the conditions are violated. Funds can be used for down payment assistance, closing costs and pre-paid real property taxes and insurances, and gap financing. The amount of assistance that will be left behind as a deferred payment loan will be tiered according to income and need of the homebuyer. As long as the borrower/owner maintains the property as their principal homestead residence during the fifteen year period of affordability, the loan will remain deferred. Program income received from the sale of assisted units will be recycled for eligible NSP3 activities. If a foreclosed upon home or residential property is to be sold to an individual or household as a primary residence, no profit may be earned by Community Assistance on such sale. The property will be sold to income eligible buyers to be used as their primary residence in an amount equal to or less than the cost to acquire and rehabilitate such home up to a decent, safe and habitable condition. Community Assistance will allow and pay for real estate sales fees that are fair and reasonable as part of the acquisition and rehabilitation process. Sales fees, closing costs, and other soft/project related costs associated with the acquisition and rehabilitation shall be considered "program delivery" type costs and will be charged to the individual projects assisted.

Overview of local housing market conditions

Volusia County Community Assistance Division staff conducted an analysis of the local housing market conditions to comply with the requirements of NSP3 regulations. The following data was reviewed for Volusia County as a whole, and to the extent available, for the proposed NSP3 census tract target areas, in conducting this analysis:

- Trulia.com website (Internet based real estate market analysis website)
- U.S. Census, American Community Survey for 2007-2009
- Volusia County Consolidated Plan for FY 2010-2014: Housing Needs Assessment and Housing Market Analysis sections
- Volusia County Economic Development Division
- University of Florida Shimberg Center for Affordable Housing
- West Volusia and Daytona Area Association of Realtors
- National Association of Realtors

Additionally, Community Assistance staff consulted with local housing partners, including community housing development organizations and affordable rental housing providers, regarding housing market conditions in the county, with particular focus on rental housing needs. The analysis of the local housing market conditions revealed the key conditions and trends related to housing tenure, homes sales, rental market, housing affordability and employment for Volusia County. This analysis is summarized below.

Housing tenure:

- Volusia County's housing tenure is heavily weighted in favor of homeownership. As of 2009, the U.S. Census estimated 73.8% of occupied housing units in the county were homeowner occupied.

Overview of local housing market conditions

Volusia County Community Assistance Division staff conducted an analysis of the local housing market conditions to comply with the requirements of NSP3 regulations. The following data was reviewed for Volusia County as a whole, and to the extent available, for the proposed NSP3 census tract target areas, in conducting this analysis:

- Trulia.com website (Internet based real estate market analysis website)
- U.S. Census, American Community Survey for 2007-2009
- Volusia County Consolidated Plan for FY 2010-2014: Housing Needs Assessment and Housing Market Analysis sections
- Volusia County Economic Development Division
- University of Florida Shimberg Center for Affordable Housing
- West Volusia and Daytona Area Association of Realtors
- National Association of Realtors

Additionally, Community Assistance staff consulted with local housing partners, including community housing development organizations and affordable rental housing providers, regarding housing market conditions in the county, with particular focus on rental housing needs. The analysis of the local housing market conditions revealed the key conditions and trends related to housing tenure, homes sales, rental market, housing affordability and employment for Volusia County. This analysis is summarized below.

Housing tenure:

- Volusia County's housing tenure is heavily weighted in favor of homeownership. As of 2009, the U.S. Census estimated 73.8% of occupied housing units in the county were homeowner occupied.
- The percentage of owner occupied homes in the county as a whole has decreased slightly from 2007 when the U.S. Census estimated that 76.0% of occupied housing units in the county were homeowner occupied.
- Homeownership rates for the NPS3 proposed census tracts is summarized below, and shows that generally these census tracts have any even higher rate of homeownership than the county as a whole:

City-Census tract	2005-2009 Percentage of homeownership
Deland - 903.01	81.5%
Orange City – 908.01	79.5%
Edgewater – 830.04	84.9%
Holly Hill – 809.00	56.5%

U.S. Census, American Community Survey 2005-2009

Homes sales:

- Local home sales data accumulated and reported on the Trulia.com website provided both positive and negative indicators of the strength of the local market for sale of single family residences in the proposed NSP 3 target cities, as summarized below:

Area	Number of homes for sale	Number of homes recently sold	Median sales price	Year over year change in median price
Deland - 32720	373	213	$110,000	-17.8%
Orange City - 32763	235	173	$85,000	0%
Edgewater - 32141	494	199	$115,500	+10%
Holly Hill - 32117	259	199	$52,500	-30%

* Data provided by Trulia.com as of December 13, 2010

- Home sales market data provided by the West Volusia Association of Realtors as of December 2009 reflected similar trends as the data summarized above from the Trulia.com website. However, this data showed that the average days on market for West Volusia had decreased by 33.9% from 2008 (decreasing from 170 days to 112 days), which reflects a positive trend for continued home sales.

Housing affordability:

- According to the National Association of Realtors, the Volusia County metropolitan area is experiencing a very high level of homeownership affordability. For the third quarter of 2010, in Volusia County the ratio of monthly mortgage payment to income was 8.2%, as compared with an average of 14.3% for the United States as a whole. In 2008, the affordability rate for Volusia County was 9.8%, indicating that homeownership is even more affordable in the county than two years ago.

Rental market:

- Managers of multi-family affordable housing projects located in Volusia County reported that their rental occupancy rates had decreased from near capacity in 2008, and that increased marketing and "rent specials" had become necessary to secure rentals.

Employment:

- According to the Volusia County Economic Development 2010 Quarter 3 report, unemployment for 2010 year to date had fallen by 2.5%.
- As reported by the National Association of Realtors, although the Volusia County metropolitan area shows that unemployment is higher than the national average for the 3rd quarter of 2010, the local employment growth is respectable as compared to other markets.

As outlined above, the local housing market analysis conducted by Community Assistance supports the use of NSP3 funds for direct acquisition

	and rehabilitation by the grantee of foreclosed homes in these areas. All of the targeted census tracts have higher rates of homeownership than the average for the county as a whole, except for Holly Hill. Market data for Orange City and Edgewater shows that the median sales price for homes in these areas has either increased or maintained over the past year which may be due in part to the investment of NSP1 funds in these neighborhoods. Continued NSP3 investment is important to maintaining homes values. The Holly Hill neighborhood is experiencing a higher rate of sales price decrease than the other proposed NSP3 target areas. Because the market values are continuing to decline, the investment of NSP3 funds is critical to prevent further decrease and blight. The procedures that Volusia County undertook to create preferences for the development of affordable rental housing with NSP3 funds involved the review of the local housing market analysis, with particular attention to the rates of homeownership, rental occupancy, affordability, employment, wages, market rents, and other factors for each of the proposed NSP 3 target areas and countywide. The County also considered other sources of funds for the development of rental housing in the community. A preference for the development of affordable rental housing in the Holly Hill Nova East neighborhood was established to take advantage of the higher demand for decent rental housing in this NSP3 neighborhood and because of the proximity of this neighborhood to public transportation and employment centers. Acquisition: The Community Assistance Division will work directly with lenders and through the National Community Stabilization Trust to acquire single-family homes, including townhomes and duplexes, in the NSP3 target areas that have been foreclosed, vacant for at least 90 days, and are on the lender's or investor's current inventory of real estate owned property. Once foreclosed properties have been identified in the target areas, the Community Assistance Division will negotiate with the lender(s) to obtain the maximum reasonable purchase discount, with a minimum of 1% discount from the appraised value. Acquisition costs will include all eligible acquisition costs, and direct project delivery costs. Rehabilitation: Community Assistance plans to use NSP3 funds for the rehabilitation of the acquired foreclosed properties. Rehabilitation costs will include labor, materials, supplies, permits, lead-based paint assessment, asbestos assessment, abatement and clearance activities, accessibility compliance and any other code deficiencies. Rehabilitation costs will also include direct project delivery costs. All rehabilitation work shall be undertaken by approved contractors that are selected through a competitive process. The rehabilitation work shall be performed in accordance with the Florida Building Codes currently in effect. The County of Volusia Minimum Standards for Rehabilitation of Residential Properties , amended for NSP3 to include energy efficiency and conservation
--	---

	standards, shall be used in completing work specifications for all rehabilitation activities. If the estimated cost of the rehabilitation at acquisition would exceed 65% of the appraised value of the structure, the unit will be re-evaluated for suitability as an acquisition for this activity with NSP3 funds. Volusia County, and its rehabilitation contractors, shall to the maximum extent possible, provide for the hiring of employees who reside in the vicinity of NSP3 projects or contract with small businesses that are owned and operated by persons residing in the vicinity of the project. Among other procedures, Volusia County and its contractors will develop a plan to address vicinity hiring of employees which may include posting of hiring and contracting notices on its NSP website, at the project, in selected publications, and conduct outreach with applicable employment organizations. Disposition: Community Assistance will establish a period of time in which to sell the acquired home to income eligible homebuyers whose incomes do not exceed 50% of the area median income. Failure to sell the home in a timely manner will result in the possibility that Community Assistance will turn the unit into an affordable rental unit to be managed by the NSP Rental Partner or a property management agency that has been selected by Community Assistance during a competitive selection process. The County may also determine to dispose of the property through a lease purchase program. Direct homeownership assistance: Community Assistance will ensure continued affordability by leaving a portion of the NSP acquisition and rehabilitation funds behind in the form of a 0% interest, 15 year deferred loan that will be forgiven if all occupancy conditions are met. Funds will be recaptured if the conditions are violated. Funds can be used for down payment assistance, closing costs and pre-paid real property taxes and insurances, and gap financing. The amount of assistance that will be left behind as a deferred payment loan will be tiered according to income and need of the homebuyer. As long as the borrower/owner maintains the property as their principal homestead residence during the fifteen year period of affordability, the loan will remain deferred. Program income received from the sale of assisted units will be recycled for eligible NSP3 activities. If a foreclosed upon home or residential property is to be sold to an individual or household as a primary residence, no profit may be earned by Community Assistance on such sale. The property will be sold to income eligible buyers to be used as their primary residence in an amount equal to or less than the cost to acquire and rehabilitate such home up to a decent, safe and habitable condition. Community Assistance will allow and pay for real estate sales fees that are fair and reasonable as part of the acquisition and rehabilitation process. Sales fees, closing costs, and other soft/project related costs associated with the acquisition and rehabilitation shall be considered "program delivery" type costs and will be charged to the individual projects
