Good morning, okay.

Head's up - Deltona announced they have sandbags available on their FB page. That will increase the calls probably. We didn't have any knowledge they were going to announce this. Sorry.

Good morning.

Here are posts for sandbags, shelter and volunteer information. I'll shorten for Twitter. Please let me know if okay, and or edits to make. Thanks!

Sandbags

Part of being prepared for a storm is checking your home for vulnerable areas. Walk around your home and evaluate the roof, windows, garage doors, patio doors, screen enclosed rooms, landscaping, etc., to see what protective measures you need to take if a storm is approaching. Sandbags may be available from your local city or in the unincorporated areas from the county. If sandbags become available due a storm threatening the area, information will be posted on social media and in the news.

Twitter: If a storm threatens, sandbags may become available from your local city or the county in the unincorporated areas, and will be announced.

Shelters

Should a storm threaten, it's important to have an evacuation plan. If you live in a storm surge evacuation area, determine where you would go if an evacuation order were given. It is best to seek shelter at a family member's or friend's house or hotel outside the evacuation area. If leaving town, leave well in advance of an approaching storm. Shelters should be used as a last resort. If emergency officials advise public shelters will open, information will be posted on social media and in the news.

Twitter: If a storm threatens, officials will announce information on public shelters, which should be used as a last resort. <http://ow.ly/YcnL30eVaTA>

Volunteer

For persons who want to volunteer to help in the community after a disaster, please register ahead of time with local community volunteer agencies: <https://www.volusia.org/services/public-protection/emergency-management/resources/volunteer-opportunities.stml>
